

October 6, 1993

To Whom it May Concern,

I would like to take this opportunity to introduce you to a Company who may meet all your customers' home improvement needs. I have had the pleasure of working with Brian Daniels for the past three months.

Brian was part of an extensive invasive testing and repair project at Century Park Place.

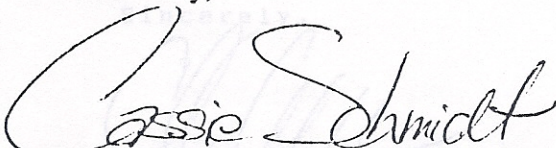

Century Park Place is a 416 unit luxury condominium complex that currently is involved in a construction defect lawsuit with its developer. Brian was part of the team of experts hired to do the invasive testing and repair.

As a general manager of a Condominium Association, my reputation heavily depends on the quality of subcontractors I hire to perform the many services necessary to maintain the property.

Brian made me look like a hero! All aspects of Brian's work was exemplary. His construction knowledge, job performance and customer service response was excellent. I received numerous calls from homeowners thanking me for having him do the invasive testing and repairwork in their homes.

Therefore I can confidently recommend Brian for any position. He is person of quality and integrity and he would bring much to any position that he is interested in.

Sincerely,

Cassie Schmidt, PCAM, CCAM
General Manager